

Welcome

Welcome to the Prospect Genealogical Website. The village of Prospect, located some 22 kilometres outside of Halifax on the western shore of the Chebucto Peninsula was founded by Irish and English fishermen in the 1750s. For the past 250 years the families who settled here have carved out a living amongst the rocky shores and continue to do so today. This website is dedicated to them and we are happy to say we are celebrating our seventh anniversary. Since 1999 we have had well over 100,000 visitors, who have used the information on this website in their genealogical hunt.

News

2 November 2008

- The Prospect Genealogical Website has moved! The website is now located on a different web host. This means that all addresses will now contain prospectvillage.ca instead of freepages.genealogy.rootsweb.ancestry.com. Be sure to update your bookmarks!

31 August 2007

- New photographs added. Please check the buildings , landscapes , Coolen family , and Duggan family pages for new photographs. All new photographs will be marked with

15 August 2007

- New church photo added

30 July 2007

- Added The Shore in Winter and The Village photo albums

23 April 2007

- Added Indian Point Road section to Building Foundations

Past news